

Open Access Policy for scholar journals

This journal provides immediate free access to its contents based on the principle that making the research available to the public free of charge favors the global exchange of knowledge.

The author can archive his work in open access repositories, either as preprints, or as postprints.

This magazine does not impose any economic charge on the submission of articles (submission charges) or the article production of articles (article processing charges, APC).